

Vendor Management Summary

Vendor Management ensures your business remains eligible to pursue and maintain government contracts by keeping all registrations, certifications, and entities compliant and active. It provides centralized oversight across your organization, helping prevent lapses that can impact contract performance, payments, or eligibility.

What This Solves

- Risk of losing eligibility due to expired registrations or certifications
- Difficulty managing compliance across multiple entities
- Gaps that impact contract performance or payments
- Lack of centralized oversight across your organization

What You Receive

- Management of registrations and certifications across federal, state, and local
- Oversight across multiple entities, subsidiaries, and affiliated vendors
- Ongoing monitoring to prevent compliance gaps or expirations
- Alignment of entity status with contract requirements

Is Vendor Management Right for You?

→ You manage multiple entities or operate under a parent structure.

Maintaining compliance across each entity requires consistent oversight.

→ You want to avoid disruptions in contract eligibility.

Missed renewals or inactive registrations can impact awards and payments.

→ You need a centralized approach to compliance.

Managing requirements across systems can become fragmented without structure.

→ You're actively performing or pursuing contracts.

Ongoing compliance is required to maintain your position.
